We dont get to be really kindly until and unless we I J--, 1-L. -. 1, . , Q . 3-t. . but . Q get more or less awayfromwork. There is work to be done, of course, but there are other things, too, and an excessive devotion to work tends to drive those other things, beautiful things, mostly, out of our lives. That this lesson needs persistent preaching there are many signs. Robert Herrick , 5; I showed us in his near-great novel, Together, how devotion to work upon the part of men is one of the things that drivesomemens wives into evil courses. 5 The work-mad husband is one of the influences that tend to disrupt the American family. He is estranged from his wife. He neglects his children in ways that are not atoned for by the generosity with which he indulges them, to their own hurt. He sends them to costly schools, because he has nt time to superintend their education, as he should. He gives the family plenty of money and thinks his duty is done. Doing things becomes with him a vice as deadly as the brothel or the bottle. a! He fails to behold the beauties of the world about him, or in the lives of his fellow-men. He has nothing but a-sneer or a smile of contemptuous tolerance for the poet or the artist. The laws of right L and wrong are repudiated if they interfere...
